National Museum of the United States Army Celebrates 100,000th Visitor

Retired Lt. Gen. Roger Schultz, president, The Army Historical Foundation and Tammy E. Call, director, National Museum of the United States Army, greet the Worth Family of Wyckoff, N.J. The Worths were presented Museum gifts to honor them as the 100,000th visitors on April 13, 2022.

Fort Belvoir, Va. — On April 13, the National Museum of the United States Army welcomed its 100,000th visitors: the Worth Family of Wyckoff, N.J. Museum Director Tammy E. Call and The Army Historical Foundation President Retired. Lt. Gen. Roger Schultz greeted the family of five with military challenge coins and other Museum gifts.

“Welcoming our 100,000th visitor is an exciting milestone toward our future of greeting millions more,” said Call. “Since opening, we have shared the inspiring history of the American Soldier with school groups, families, international travelers, and proud veterans who helped shape the Army’s rich legacy. It is truly an honor to share the stories within this Museum with the world.”

The Museum located on Fort Belvoir, just south of Washington, D.C., opened on November 11, 2020. It is the first to tell the comprehensive history of the nation's oldest military service, immersing visitors in the story of the U.S. Army through compelling galleries, moving exhibits, a multisensory 300-degree theater, tranquil rooftop garden, and hundreds of historic treasures rarely or never-before-seen by the public.

The Museum is scheduled to be open every day except December 25. Free, timed-entry tickets are required and are available by request through the Museum's website at theNMUSA.org.

Media interested in touring the Museum may contact public affairs officer Susan Smullen, susan.l.fazakerley-smullen.civ@army.mil.

About the National Museum of the United States Army

The National Museum of the United States Army provides the only comprehensive portrayal of Army history and traditions through the eyes of the American Soldier. By preserving, interpreting, and exhibiting invaluable artifacts, the National Army Museum creates learning opportunities for all visitors and bonds the American people to their oldest military service. We are America's Army Museum.

The U.S. Army owns and operates the Museum. The Army Historical Foundation continues its fundraising role in support of the Museum and manages all retail, catering and special events.

About The Army Historical Foundation

The Army Historical Foundation establishes, assists, and promotes programs and projects that preserve the history of the American Soldier and promote public understanding of and appreciation for the contributions by all components of the U.S. Army and its members. The Foundation serves as the Army's official fundraising entity for the Capital Campaign for the National Museum of the United States Army. The award-winning, LEED- certified Museum opened on November 11, 2020, at Fort Belvoir, Va., and will honor the service and sacrifice of all American Soldiers who have served since the Army's inception in 1775.
